Dear First Minister,

Increasing Use of Toxic Chemicals on 'Scottish' Salmon Farms

You once phoned me up asking to lobby on your behalf in relation to fishing issues. Now I ask if you would please lobby on behalf of Scotland's marine environment, Scotland's wild salmon and Scotland's sea trout. Please stop the shameful discharge of toxic chemicals by foreign-owned salmon farms into Scotland's pristine waters.

The simple fact of the matter is that there has been a 12-fold increase in the use and discharge of toxic chemicals by salmon farms in Scotland since 2005 – with a doubling in the last four years (2008-2011). Read more details online via FishyLeaks: <http://gaaia.org/fishyleaks>

In fact, during your first year in office as First Minister of Scotland in 2007 the use of toxic chemicals on salmon farms increased by 491% - increasing almost 6-fold from 31180g in 2006 to 184300g in 2007.

By 2009, the use of toxic chemicals increased by a further 85% to 341700g – that represents a ten-fold increase in the first three years of your tenure of First Minister of Scotland.

During the four period (2006-2009), salmon farming production increased by 9% whilst the use of toxic chemicals on Scottish salmon farms increased by a staggering 996%.

The latest data obtained from the Scottish Environment Protection Agency via Freedom of Information – sourced directly from the salmon farming companies who submit quarterly reports to the 'Scottish Pollutant Release Inventory' – reveals that the increase has continued with 394631g of toxic chemicals used by Scottish salmon farms in 2011.

That represents a 1094% increase in the use of toxic chemicals on Scottish salmon farms since 2005. At the same time the increase in Scottish salmon farming production increased by 21%.

Read data in full via 'Dossier of Chemical Use on Scottish Salmon Farms 2008-2011'

In view of the fact that your Government has pledged to increased Scottish salmon farming production by 50% on 2009 levels to 210,000 tonnes by 2020 does that mean your plan is to increase the use of toxic chemicals on Scottish salmon farms by over 2000% (based on the same rate of growth since 2005)?

Moreover, during your visit to Norway in May 2012 to visit the head office of Marine Harvest (Scotland and the world's largest salmon farming company) you stated that you were "delighted by their latest investment commitment that will benefit local communities." That five-year investment plan was detailed by Marine Harvest as "in the region of £80 million between 2012 and 2016 that could create around 100 jobs".

Marine Harvest, as you are no doubt aware, is a Norwegian company owned by Norway's richest man John Fredriksen. Mr Fredriksen is also the UK's 9th richest man (according to the Sunday Times 'Rich List 2012' worth £6.6 billion) and the 75th richest person in the world (according to the Forbes 'The World's Billionaires' list worth $11.3 billion).

When you negotiated this £80 million sell-out for Scotland did you also discuss plans to increase Marine Harvest's use of toxic chemicals?

Here's a photo of the May 2012 meeting:

First Minister in Norway

First Minister breakfast meeting with Alan Sutherland, MD of Marine Harvest Scotland, Ole Eirik Leroy, Chairman of Marine Harvest Corps and Jane Owen, UK Ambassador to Norway.

When you met with Marine Harvest's chairman Ole-Eirik Leroy at Marine Harvest's head office in Bergen, Norway, did you negotiate a deal whereby in return for £80 million blood money Marine Harvest would be permitted to continue slaughtering seals across the Highlands and Islands of Scotland?

Did you put a price on Marine Harvest continuing to contaminate Scottish lochs including Loch Linnhe and Loch Ewe with toxic chemicals?

Did you discuss the 681 times Marine Harvest used toxic chemicals between 2008 and 2011 including Cypermethrin (8564.52g); Azamethiphos (216422.1633g); Teflubenzuron (54000g); Emamectin benzoate (78438.0109g); and Deltamethrin (26585.61g) (see all 681 uses in Lochs across Scotland enclosed in the Appendix)?

When you met with Marine Harvest in Norway did you negotiate on behalf of the people of Scotland for Norwegian-owned companies to be allowed to continue their policy of non-disclosure of sea lice data?

As First Minister of Scotland do you truly believe that the increasing use of toxic chemicals, slaughter of seals, mass mortalities and the spread of infectious diseases by foreign-owned multinationals is, as you put it in May 2012, "the essence and signature of Scotland"?

Watch a video report on the visit to Marine Harvest's head office in Norway online here (I think that is the Norwegian flag waving to the right)

By allowing the further expansion of the salmon farming industry in Scotland (over 85% of which is now owned by Norwegian and Polish multinationals), the Scottish Government is signalling that it is willing to sacrifice one of Scotland's true icons: the wild Atlantic salmon. Wild salmon in Scotland is a priceless asset yet your Government appears to have sold it off for £80 without consultation with the Scottish public.

“The implications of increasing significantly, let alone doubling, farmed salmon production in Scotland are terrifying,” wrote Andrew Flitcroft in an article – ‘You’re so wrong about salmon, Mr Salmond’ in The Observer published in 2011. “Surely it is recklessly irresponsible to contemplate any increase without first rectifying the dire existing problems, particularly the spread of deadly sea lice, caused to juvenile wild salmon and sea trout in the west Highlands and Islands by current production levels. There is little doubt that the situation is set to deteriorate.”

Mr. Flitcroft, the Editor of Trout & Salmon magazine, continued:

“Now evidence is growing that salmon farms in Scotland are fast losing the battle against sea lice, mirroring the situation in Norway, where the head of the Directorate for Nature Management (the equivalent of Scottish Natural Heritage) has just called for a 50% cut in salmon production because, for the second year running, the average number of lice on each caged fish in several regions of Norway has exceeded the official limit of one mature female louse or five lice in total with increasing resistance to chemical treatment.”

So whilst the Norwegian Government’s environmental advisers caution a 50% reduction, the Scottish Government (in hock to the Norwegian-owned Marine Harvest to the tune of £80 million) are gearing up for a 50% increase in salmon farming production by 2020.

Do you honestly believe that you are flying the flag for Scotland by selling wild salmon down the river to Norwegian multinationals?

Sadly, it is painfully clear – as evidenced by the shocking new chemical data and the refusal of the Scottish Government to release sea lice data – that Scotland is already plagued by ‘super-lice’ resistant to toxic chemicals. It is also clear that the Scottish Government and the Scottish National Party has become afflicted by the mentality of what Joel Bakan calls a “corporate psychopath”.

How else can you explain your decision to accept £80 million from Marine Harvest to permit this Norwegian-owned corporate criminal to discharge more and more toxic chemicals into Scottish waters?

Finally, GAAIA will be visiting Scotland in November to deliver a dead seal shot by Marine Harvest and chemically contaminated sediments collected from under a Marine Harvest salmon farm to the steps of St. Andrew's House. If you had time to meet in person to discuss the lethal and toxic issue of Scottish salmon farming it would be much appreciated. Please bring a face-mask and rubber gloves – Scottish salmon farming is a toxic and bloody industry as you know.

For further information - including letters to OSPAR, SEPA, SNH and the European Commission on Scotland's failure to reduce toxic chemical use - please read FishyLeaks

Yours sincerely,

Don Staniford
